What's New In Agenda?

The purpose of the Task Management software is to help you improve your planning, organizing, and time-saving by helping you manage your day and tasks so that you spend less time working on the same tasks over and over again. While it may sound like a huge task, it is really very simple to use! Your Organization First things first, Agenda takes a little while to get setup. You need to decide what categories you want to use in Agenda. You can start by defining categories for each day of the week, tasks, projects and contexts. This helps you get things organized and allows you to see your tasks from a different perspective. It's ok if you have a task or an item in a category that it has no name. You can always change the category name after you've added it to the agenda. Once you have set up your categories, Agenda will suggest categories that you haven't yet thought of when you create a new task or item. You can add new categories at any time and they will be immediately available for future tasks or items. You can also remove categories at any time. You can add any number of items to each category. You can create sub-categories to group your tasks by projects or areas of your work. Finally, you can create contexts for each sub-category to manage your tasks by day of the week and time of day. Tasks When you create a task or item in Agenda it will automatically appear in the appropriate category for that type of item. You can also add a due date and time. Agenda allows you to create multiple tasks for each project or a context. When you save a task you can save it in one of four categories: Today, This Week, This Month, and This Year. You can save each task or item as a draft until you create a new task with the same name. Your task list can grow quickly if you find that you are running out of time on your to-do list. Agenda has a built in reminder system to help you remember what you need to do next. You can set up reminders for each category. A task can have multiple reminders if it's due more than once a day or at a certain time.

You can choose from a range of sounds and time intervals to get your reminders. Contexts Agenda offers two types of context. Planned and Unplanned. Planned Contexts are used for events and deadlines that are scheduled in advance. You can create multiple contexts to help you organize
