Adaptation of a story written by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle..Q: Limit access to my Lucene.Net index I've been using Lucene.Net and just a quick question. How can I limit access to my index using Lucene.Net. In case this is not possible in general, any pointers to some reading would be useful. A: It looks like there's an option to add a blacklist to the index. It looks like a neat solution for a bunch of potential abuse: To give credit where credit's due, all credit for this solution goes to Dario Berri at who posted this solution some months ago. A: It should be possible to limit access based on the IP address, you can use this kind of query to get an IP range: Query q = new TermQuery(new Term("ip", "192.168.1.1")); Queries can be combined using BooleanQuery.merge, so you could do: BooleanQuery blacklist = new BooleanQuery(); 6d1f23a050
