I am trying to use disk cleanup to delete old temporary files and system restore points. Sometimes I get "System Restore points found. To do this, your system must be shut down fully.", and when I shut it down it restarts right back up. Is there a way to remove these old restore points? I don't care about the temporary files. I am on a Windows 7 virtual machine. A: Check the registry key
HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\Software\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Restore\SystemRestoreRollback Make sure there isn't any value under there. If there is a value under there, just delete it. Reset your virtual machine if necessary. Q: How to tell if you're missing a package I had the built-in BackBox installed on my computer. It was missing some files, so I installed it on another partition. Now I would like to remove it again, but I'm not sure how to find out which files I missed. A: You can list all the packages that were installed as follows: `dpkg --get-selections | grep '^i' | grep -v '^rc'` You can also see the list of installed packages using the `dpkg -l` commands, but this isn't as user-friendly as what I provided above. A: I had the same problem, here is the command I used: `dpkg -l | grep '^rc' | grep '\.'` A: You can install aptitude which gives you more information. `sudo apt-get install aptitude` After it's done, you can use it by pressing `Ctrl+shift+A`, which will open a list of installed packages. You can then sort and search for the package. So when you want to remove a package, you can first use aptitude. `sudo apt-get purge package-name-you-want-to-remove` Then to find out if there's any remaining, or partially removed packages, you could use the following command: `sudo apt-get install aptitude && sudo aptitude purge package-name-you-want-to-remove`
